MEMORANDUM-DECISION AND ORDER

I. Introduction

Plaintiff pro se Dennis Boodrow commenced this action against defendants Andrea Evans, Commissioner of New York State Division of Parole, and James Campbell, Albany County Sheriff, asserting claims pursuant to 42 U.S.C. § 1983 for false imprisonment and emotional distress. (See Compl., Dkt. No. 1.) Pending are Evans and Campbell's motion to dismiss.¹ (Dkt. No. 14.) For the reasons that follow, defendants' motion to dismiss is granted.

II. Background²

On June 10, 2003, Boodrow was sentenced to a maximum term of eight years in state prison. (See Compl. ¶ 6, Dkt. No. 1.) Based on this sentence, his expiration date was calculated to be August 24, 2010. (Id.) Roughly one month before this date, Boodrow was released from the Adirondack Correctional Facility and ordered to report to the Division of Parole in Albany, New York. (Id.) Although he made his initial report, Boodrow's failure to report to a July 26, 2010 meeting resulted in a declaration of delinquency. (Id.) On August 20, 2010—25 days after he was declared a delinquent—Boodrow was arrested and remanded to the Albany County Jail. (Id.) Boodrow waived his preliminary hearing, and the Division of Parole scheduled a revocation hearing for September 13, 2010. (Id.) Though the final revocation hearing was never held, he was released on September 14, 2010. (Id.) In sum, Boodrow claims that despite his pleas to jail officials, and calls on his behalf to the Division of Parole, he was detained for 16 days beyond his maximum expiration date. (Id.)

III. Standard of Review

The standard of review under Fed. R. Civ. P. 12 is well established and will not be repeated here.³ For a full discussion of the standard, the court refers the parties to its decision in Ellis v. Cohen & Slamowitz, LLP, 701 F. Supp. 2d 215, 218 (N.D.N.Y. 2010).

IV. Discussion

Defendants argue that Boodrow's calculation of his expiration was incorrect, and thus, his claim must fail. (See Dkt. No. 14, Attach. 1 at 6.) The court agrees.

³ Because Boodrow is proceeding pro se, the court will construe his Complaint liberally. See Triestman v. Fed. Bureau of Prisons, 470 F.3d 471, 474 (2d Cir. 2006).

Under the New York Penal Law, Boodrow's expiration date was tolled during the period he was a delinquent. N.Y. Penal Law § 70.40(3)(a) (McKinney 2011); see also N.Y. Comp. Codes R. & Regs. tit. 9, § 8004.3(b) ("The date of delinquency is the earliest date that a violation of parole is alleged to have occurred. The declaration of delinquency, when issued, interrupts the sentence as of the date of the delinquency.").

Here, Boodrow was declared a delinquent on July 26, 2010, and was not rearrested until August 20, 2010. (See Compl. ¶ 6, Dkt. No. 1.) This period of delinquency extended his original expiration date to September 23, 2010. As such, his release on September 14, 2010 was timely, and his claim of wrongful imprisonment fails.⁴

V. Conclusion

WHEREFORE, for the foregoing reasons, it is hereby

ORDERED that defendants' motion to dismiss (Dkt. No. 14) is

GRANTED and all claims against Evans and Campbell are DISMISSED;

and it is further

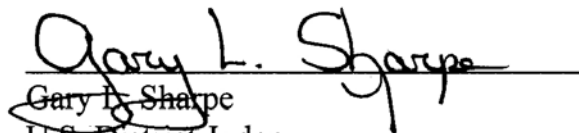

⁴ The court notes that Boodrow has not offered any facts to support his claim for emotional distress. (See Compl. ¶ 7, Dkt. No. 1.) Although detailed factual allegations are not required, Boodrow must "provide the grounds of his entitlement to relief[,] . . . labels and conclusions, and a formulaic recitation of the elements of a cause of action will not do." Bell Atl. Corp. v. Twombly, 550 U.S. 544, 555 (2007). Accordingly, his claim for emotional distress is dismissed.

ORDERED that the Clerk close this case; and it is further

ORDERED that the Clerk provide a copy of this Memorandum-
Decision and Order to the parties by mail and certified mail.

IT IS SO ORDERED.
